

Starlit Journey

Horizon vast, unending, swirling clouds above.
Long and winding roads call out, beckoning you on.
Now with everything you need, it's time to depart.
Fire up your machine and feel the engine roar!

Soaring high, like shooting stars in the sky,
whistling by in a symphony of speed.
Racing on, faster than all our fears, we'll break through,
knowing we've finally reached our long-awaited dreams!

See glittering oceans, flora lush and green,
creating a work of art as you hit full speed.
In the glow of evening light, our song hums along,
a tail wind at our back propelling us on!

Now fly, like shooting stars in the sky,
higher than anyone who came before!
Don't look back, 'cause nothing can hold you down.
You are horizon bound, meant to be weightless and free
in the infinite skies!

An arc of red streaks through the stillness of dark.
It flashes, then fades away, far into the stars.
Yet in warm rays of dawn, we will journey on through the unknown, into the fray, machines lighting our way!

Soaring high, like shooting stars in the sky,
whistling by in a symphony of speed.
Racing on, faster than all our fears, we'll break through,
knowing we've finally reached our long-awaited dreams!

Now fly, like shooting stars in the sky,
higher than anyone who came before!
Don't look back, 'cause nothing can hold you down.
You are horizon bound, meant to be weightless and free
in the infinite skies!